Volume IX. SATURDAY, July 23, 1796. Number 516.

LANDS

To be LET or SOLD to SETTLERS only:

THREE Thousand Three Hundred acres on Wickaniny and Three Forks creeks, five miles each from the falls of the mouth branches of the river Monongahela, about 10 or 15 miles south of Morgan Town, Monongalia county, Virginia, is offered on improving terms and for sale in tracts suitable to the circumstances of settlers only. These lands, like all others on the waters of the Monongahela, are rich and rough or broken. Industrious people are invited to view the lands, and will be treated in terms as may best suit their convenience. Persons inclining to view said lands will apply to Mr. EDWARD HAYMOND shewing to each a line of the same, or to the subscriber at Brownsville, Fayette county, Pennsylvania, either of whom will shew them the respective properties. The subscriber's title is clear; or will be accommodating in the terms of lease and sale, and in the mode and time of payment.—He proposes to erect a Grist and Saw Mills to accommodate the settlers, and to lay off a few Town and Out Lots on said lands, near the mills, and across which a road through to said lands leads from Clarksburgh to the great Yaughiogany road at Dunkard Bottom, or Cheat river—these Lots he wishes to let out to industrious Mechanics on moderate ground rent forever, but redeemable at the option of the lessee on paying a donation. The subscriber forbears recommending these lands, confiding that those who come will like what he has, and a choice which will be given to the first applicants in order as to apply, are sufficient inducements, and he positively will give the best terms to the first settlers.

JAMES LANG.

CAME last May to the plantation of the subscriber, living at the mouth of Plumb creek, on the Allegheny river, a red and white COW, with crumpled horns no ear mark. The owner is desired to come, prove property, pay charges and take her away.

ADAM JOHNSTON.

July 7, 1796.

WHEREAS a certain Robert Galloway of Washington county, advertised me in the Pittsburgh Gazette the twenty ninth of October last as having run away from him as an apprentice, offered the generous reward of nine pence for apprehending me and bringing me home, but no charges. As my time was precious to one of his business he would give a reward equivalent for the loss he was like to sustain, but know, impartial reader, that said Galloway had been down at Yorktown, and reported, that he had furnished his apprentices with arms and ammunition, and that they had been at the burning of Gen. Nevill's house, and if he had not made a precipitate retreat he would have been apprehended. On his return home he sent me down to bring up some property he had neglected in his hurry, and I had got as far Getty's town, in York county, where I was apprehended, on his report, and taken to Chambersburgh and there confined in jail, after some time I was admitted to bail, and when an examination took place I was honorably acquitted, and said Galloway proved to be a liar. After my return home he gave me my indentures, and employed me as a journeyman for four months, at five pounds per month, to superintend his business, during which time he went to Kentucky; when he came back, being vexed at paying so much money, he reported that I had stolen some of his money in the month of November, at which time, I have made it appear before William Boyd, Esq. that I was not on the west side of the Allegheny mountain. He then sued me for the clothes he was to give me during my apprenticeship, I also cast him in this action—he then swore before squire Boyd, the second time, that I had stole his money and that it was done in December; I also proved that false—I threatened to prosecute him, he then produced a deposition of a minor boy, taken before a magistrate in Washington county. Squire Boyd then asked him how he knew I had taken the money, he replied, that the boy had told him so, and took up the boy's deposition, and swore to the contents of it, (amazing it is to think that a man would swear to a boy's deposition without a certainty) and then apprehending his danger, and being warned by some of his friends that James Paul, Esq. sheriff of Fayette county, was waiting to take him, he took a quick departure, giving Ohio Bail to all his creditors, and like all evil disposed persons with hasty strides flying from justice for fear of being detected in their villainy.

ROBERT LATTA.

Pittsburgh, July 7, 1796.

One Dollar Reward.

STRAYED from the plantation of the subscriber, living in Allegheny county, Mifflin township, on the waters of Peter's creek, near William Cochran's mill and distillery, about the last of April, a red COW, with a white face, the points of both her horns sawed off, it is supposed she would calve about the first of June, no brand or ear mark, except a slit in one of her ears occasioned by the bite of a dog. Whoever takes up said Cow and secures her so that the owner may get her again, shall receive the above reward, and reasonable charges.

PARIS, April 29.

The General in Chief of the army of Italy to the Executive Directory, dated from the Head-Quarters at Lezino, 30 Floreal.

"I HAVE to give you an account of the taking of Ceva, of the battle of Mondovi, and of our entry into this place.

"The 27th, General Angereau went to Montelezimo, and attacked the redoubts which defend the entrenched camp at Ceva, which were defended by eight thousand Piedmontese. The columns commanded by Generals Beyraud and Joubert, fought all the day, and took the greatest number of them. The loss of the enemy amounted to about 300 men, we have lost the chief of the 39th half brigade.

"The enemy, fearing to be turned in the night by Castellino, evacuated the entrenched camp in the night. At break of day, General Surrieur entered the town of Ceva, and invested the citadel. We have found in the town some resources for provisions.

"The Piedmontese army driven from Ceva, took a position at the confluence of the Curlaglia and Tanaro, having its right supported by Notre Dame de Vico, and its centre by the Bicoque. The 6th inst. General Surrieur attacked the right of the enemy, by the village of St. Michel. He passed the bridge under fire, and after three hours combat obliged them to evacuate the village; but the Tenaro not being fordable, the division which attacked the left could not cross, and the enemy reinforced in its right, obliged General Surrieur to retreat, which he did in the best order.—The same night he returned to his former position. The enemy lost about 150 men.

"The situation of the enemy was formidable, surrounded by two deep and rapid rivers. They had cut down all the bridges and planted batteries on the banks. [illegible] passed the whole of the 2d in [illegible] positions, seeking by false [illegible] conceal our intentions.

"At two o'clock after midnight, General Masseno passed the Tenaro near Ceva, and entered the plains of Lezeno.—Generals Guieux and Fiorella stopped at the fording of Lore. After [illegible] march to Montezemo under the enemy to change the field of battle, Colli fearing the issue of a combat at 9 o'clock at midnight, retreated, leaving behind all his artillery, and took the road for Mondovi.

"At break of day the two armies were in sight of each other. The battle began in the village of Vico: Gen. Guieux marched to the left of Mondovi; Generals Fiorella and Domartin attacked and took the redoubt which covered the centre of the enemy, and the Sardinia army abandoned the field of battle: the same night we entered Mondovi.

"The enemy has lost 1800 men, of whom 1300 are made prisoners. A Piedmontese General has been killed, and three are made prisoners. Eleven stand of colours, and eight pieces of cannon have also fallen into our hands.

"Our whole army regret the fate of General Stengel, who was mortally wounded charging at the head of one of the regiments of cavalry.

(Signed) "BUONAPARTE."

P. S. To morrow I will send you an stand of colours, four of which belong to the body guards of the king of Sardinia.

The Executive Directory to General Buonaparte, Commander in Chief of the army of Italy.

Paris, 6 Floreal.

"The Executive Directory has received with the liveliest satisfaction, Citizen General, the news of the victory gained over the Austrians in Italy. In appreciating advantages so signal, at the opening of the campaign, which the removal of the period of peace, on the part of the enemies of the republic, has forced us to undertake, it is very satisfactory to us to see you justify by the laurels which you have gathered, the choice which has been made of you to lead the army of Italy to victory. Receive, General, the tribute of national gratitude—merit it more and more—and prove to Europe that Beaulieu, though he has changed the field of battle, has not changed his enemies; that, beat in the north, he will also be constantly beat by the brave army of Italy, and that the defenders of liberty will triumph over the powerful efforts of the enemies of the republic.

To General Labarpe.

"You have for a long time accustomed the friends of the republic to hear your name mentioned when the army of Italy has gained any advantage. Your patriotism and your talents are a guarantee to the directory and to all France, that you will ſtill ſhare the glory and the ſucceſſes that are reſerved for the brave diviſion which you command during the preſent campaign."

To General Maſſena.

"The directory have ſeen, by the report of the commander in chief, that you have not a little contributed to the ſucceſs of the glorious days of the 20th and 21ſt Germinal; they expected no leſs from your courage and talents; they are a ſure guarantee of the ſucceſſes of the army of Italy."

To General Carvoni.

"The labours of the laſt campaign had too well made known your courage to the directory to make them for a moment doubt, that the Auſtrains, by making you ſuffer the firſt ſhock, would afford you the firſt advantage."

To the chief of Brigade Rampon.

"Intrepid ſoldier, lover of liberty, continue to ſerve it; let the oath which you made the brave ſoldiers whom you commanded in the redoubt of Monte Leſino be repeated occaſionally by all the republicans who are worthy of keeping it; let it ſerve to ſtrengthen in them, if that were neceſſary, the hatred of ſlavery and the deſire of conquering thoſe who have not renounced the fenſeleſs project of again putting us in fetters. French valour will, without doubt, force them ſoon to demand peace, for which they now teſtify ſuch unwillingneſs—you will have concured, by your example, and by the heroic trait that does you ſo much honour. What ſweeter reward is there for the friend of his country and of the republic!"

LONDON, May 13.

Arrangements are now making for importing from Great Britain the whole of the copper to be uſed in the copper coinage of the United States. It is to be completely prepared here, and only to receive the ſtroke of the dye in America.

The intelligence we communicated ſeveral days ago, that the emperoſs of Ruſſia had withdrawn her troops from the frontiers of Finland, is confirmed by the following letter. Copenhagen, April 30.

We learn that the differences between Ruſſia and Sweden have been amicably ſettled, and that a beginning has already been made to withdraw the troops. It is ſaid that the marriage of the King of Sweden has been delayed for the preſent.

May 6. Mr. Grey's motion for an impeachment of his Majeſty's miniſters, was yeſterday put, and negatived by an immenſe majority.

M. de Briſſac, who commands a diviſion of the royal army of Britany, in the department of Ille et Vilaine, having received intelligence that the republicans had aſſembled a corps of 2000 men between Fougerres and Rennes, with a view of attacking him, ſurpriſed them in their camp, at the head of 1600 men, killed 600 men, and took all their baggage and field equipage.

May 13. The diſturbances in Corſica, though extremely unpleaſant, are very groſsly exaggerated in the Paris Gazettes. The immediate cauſe of them proceeds from a tax lately impoſed by the viceroy, which the Corſicans conceive to be unjuſt and oppreſſive. Only a very ſmall part of the iſland is in a ſtate of inſurrection. We are given to believe, that the diſſatisfaction of theſe iſlanders is more againſt the confidential miniſter of the viceroy, who is a Corſican, than againſt the Britiſh government. It is thought the diſturbances will ſoon be quelled.

A letter from Gibraltar, dated March 31, ſtates, that the ſailors of the French fleet in the bay of Cadiz, are ſo mutinous, that they continue to murder each other daily, and that the harbour is covered with dead bodies. Their having been cheated out of their prize money is the cauſe aſſigned.

On the 18th ultimo two ſhips ſailed up the Scheldt to Antwerp: they are the firſt that have ſailed up the Scheldt ſince the opening of that river.

May 14. This day a mail arrived from Hamburgh. The letters from Bruſſels and the Hague ſeem to confirm the fact announced in the French papers, that the armiſtice on the Rhine has terminated. Another circumſtance, which gives farther corroboration to the ſtatement, is the non-arrival of any of the Rhine newſpapers. This looks as if public buſineſs had been by ſome means interrupted.

A motion for peace was loſt in the Houſe of Lords, May 10. Yeas 10.—Noes 110.

COWES, May 2.

Our road at this time exhibits more appearance of an American port than an Engliſh harbour, as no leſs than twenty flags of that nation are now flying on board veſſels, which have arrived during the laſt week, with cargoes of wheat, flour, Indian meal, &c. to ſell in this country.

Unfortunately for our ſpeculators, their arrival is too late, by ſix months at leaſt; for none of them, with the benefit of the extraordinary bounty offered, can ſell, but with the certainty of a conſiderable loſs, as every buſhel of wheat now on board coſt the purchaſer in America 11/6 ſterling.

Captain Crocker, of the brig Ann belonging to Philadelphia, laden with flour is this morning come in from Havre, to which place he run to diſpoſe of his cargo but could not even get a price named, ſo glutted is that market with every ſpecies of in from neutral ports.

DUBLIN, May 4.

Our laſt letters from London adviſe that an order had been iſſued by the admiralty, for an immediate levy of 6000 ſeamen, by impreſs or otherwiſe. This peremptory order is ſaid to be the conſequence of communications made by the laſt Corunna mail that determinations hoſtile to Britain had taken place in the cabinet of his Catholic majeſty.

They write from Alicant, that if the threatened war between Ruſſia and the Porte actually takes place, a fleet of twenty ſhips of the line will ſail from Carthagena, to ſecond the ſecond the operations of the Turkiſh ſquadrons in the Black Sea.

Should the above dreadful event come to paſs, which from the preſent proſpect of affairs is highly probable, we muſt, of courſe take part with our ally the Empreſs of Ruſſia, a circumſtance that muſt render a rupture with Spain inevitable.

The ſpeculations on linen for the Spaniſh and American markets this year, exceeds any ſimilar inſtance ſince the commence of the war.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.

From the New-Bedford Medley.

The following particulars of the extraordinary occurence at the Vineyard, mentioned in the MEDLEY of the 20th inſtant, were received by a gentleman in this town, from his correſpondent there, in a letter dated Chilmark, June 20, 1796.

"In your laſt you wiſhed me to tranſmit to you a circumſtantial account of nature's freak at the roaring brook—Immediately on the receipt of your letter, I went to examine the premiſes, but not having the neceſſary apparatus, I could not aſcertain with preciſion the exact quantum of ſunken land, or the altitude of the cliff previous to its falling—Its area perhaps might meaſure one and an half acres, including about one hundred rods in front of the ſunken land, elevated or forced up by the impetus of the falling body—Its (the elevated land's) greateſt height next to the water meaſuring a perpendicular direction about fifteen feet, and its mean width ſeven rods; this appears to be a body of clay intermixed with ſand, which lay on the ſhore, and ſtones of various ſizes; the whole of which I believe to be below high water mark, or below where high water mark once was; it deſcends gradually from its ſummit (which is next the water) until it forms a junction with the above mentioned ſunken land—which alſo deſcends in a ſimilar manner; and where the two parts unite there is a ſmall pond of water three feet deep, ſix or eight wide, and twenty or thirty long, probably rain water. The cliff conſiſted principally of clay, in ſome places it is nearly horizontal, in others tending more to the perpendicular, but in general forming a gradual deſcent.—I obſerved in each body of clay, apertures running in various directions and of various depths. I cannot account for ſome of the phenomenons above mentioned, nor attempt to give a philoſophical ratio for them."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Paris to his friend in New-York, dated 18th of April, 1796, received by the Southam from Falmouth.

"I cannot omit circumſtances of the moſt curious kind. Yeſterday I aſcended the Telegraph in this city two hundred and ninety three ſteps; within a few minutes orders were received to inform the citizens of Liſle, one hundred and fifty miles from Paris, that all was well, and nothing new, on which a man gave motion to the machine, and in ſeventeen minutes an anſwer was returned and announced by the ſaid Telegraph; the atmoſphere was dull and heavy, or an anſwer would have been returned in leſs time."

By the Fair American, Captain Tredwell, in 56 days from Hamburgh, we received papers to the 29th of April, the moſt material articles in them are—the anſwer of the Ruſſian miniſter at the Ottoman Porte reſpecting the armament of the Turks, a refutation of the reports of 60000 men having been put by the king of Pruſſia, under the command of the duke of Brunſwick, to preſerve the line of demarcation agreed to with the French—that a very conſiderable body of troops had been embodied by the Swediſh General Baron Klingſoor in Finland; although his advances were conſidered as premature by the government—that the arch duke Charles was on a viſit at Vienna from the Auſtrian armies—that the French were advancing towards Manheim; and that every movement and preparation on both ſides was leading to an immediate renewal of hoſtilities on the Rhine.

COUNTERFEIT DOLLARS.

The public are hereby notified, that there are a great number of Counterfeit Dollars in circulation.—They are well executed, but are immediately detected by ſtriking a ſmall hole into them with an awl or graver, and then applying a drop of aqua fortis, which is to be met with in every druggiſt's or apothecary's ſhop. If the coin is baſe metal coated with ſilver (as is the caſe with thoſe now in circulation) the inſtant it is touched with the wet cork it will bubble like boiling water, and leave a verdigreaſe in the hole and round the edge. No ſtorekeeper or merchant ſhould be without a vial of this liquid, but it ſhould be carefully locked up from children and careleſs people. The beſt impreſſions of theſe counterfeits bear the dates of 1791 and 1793—they appear to be ſtruck by a ſtrong engine, the ſmooth part having a high poliſh.

NEW YORK, July 7.

The proſpect of affairs in Europe has become materially changed by the reduction of the king of Sardinia.

The ſituation in which the inferior powers have ever been involved, has been to the laſt degree humiliating. Obliged at one time to enter into the views of a powerful potentate, in which they have often not had the ſmalleſt individual concern; & on a reverſe of fortune, impelled to join the conqueror againſt the very power with whom they were liſt in alliance. Such appears to be the approaching fate of Sardinia.

A very ſuperficial view will diſcover how far the Emperor will be likely to be affected by this event. The ſafety of his valuable Duchies of Milan & Mantua, & that of Mirandola in Modena, depend much on the ſecurity of the adjoining territories of the king of Sardinia. His will now become greatly expoſed: & if the accounts of the reduction of the Auſtrain armies, in in that quarter, be true, he will, moſt probably, be reduced to the neceſſity of negociating for the ſafety of theſe, or his poſſeſſions in the Netherlands.

Our attention is then naturally directed to the remaining powers at war. In this ſituation of affairs it would appear, at firſt view, that Great Britain would remain diſagreeably burthened with the charge of conteſt.

The operations with her muſt be confined to her navy, which might ſtill embrace objects of importance in the Eaſt and Weſt-Indies—and protect her infatuated ſituation at home.

Ruſſia is ſtill on the ſide of England, and powerful. How far Spain might be encouraged to aſſume an hoſtile appearance or any diſimprovement of the preſent confederation, is a matter of ſpeculation.

A knowledge of the tranſactions on the Rhine remains yet to decide the abſolute fate of the Emperor; and it will not be ſurpriſing if the king of Pruſſia ſhould again come forward to oppoſe any firmer eſtabliſhment of the French in the Low Countries. War, with him, is at any time but a kind of trade in which he is always ready to engage, provided the ſpeculation prove in any conſiderable degree inviting.

The deſirable event of a general peace in Europe, we view upon the whole, not withſtanding the late important change of circumſtances in the ſouth as yet remote.

BOSTON, July 1.

FROM MARTINIQUE

Captain Jenkins, from Martinique, informs, that the Engliſh made 3000 priſoners in the capture of St. Lucia. Since which event they had proceeded againſt Mariegalante. They were endeavouring to drive the French from Grenada and St. Vincents. A report was circulating juſt before Capt. J's ſailing, that ſhips of the line, frigates &c. had arrived at Guadaloupe from France.

The Blacks of Trinidad, have riſen in rebellion, and killed a large number of the inhabitants.

Pittsburgh, July 25.

Extract of a letter from an Officer of the Army, dated Head Quaters, Greenville June 17, 1796, to his friend at Cincinnati.

"Captain Shaumbugh, aid de camp to Brigadier General James Wilkinſon, returned to this place laſt evening from Detroit, and has brought with him a letter from Col. England to the General, in which I am aſſured he informs him, that he hourly expected finabrders from Lord Dorcheſter for the evacuation of the poſts ſubject to his command; that he was prepared to avail himſelf of the ſhorteſt notice and that ſo ſoon as thoſe orders ſhould arrive, he would diſpatch a expreſs to the General, with information thereof; to the end that they might concert meaſures for the ſafe delivery of the public ſtores and buildings to the troops of the United States—Captain Shaumburgh was received with marked diſtinction, was lodged in the quarters of Capt. O'Brian, of the garriſon, and was treated with the utmoſt politeneſs and urbanity by all ranks."

MEADVILLE, on the Banks of French Creek, July 7.

It will no doubt be agreeable to every friend of America, to mark the progreſs of civilization in a part of the country, where a few months ſince no bright ray appeared to illume the country, but clouds of darkneſs and death thrown over it by ſavage murder and deſtruction.

The inhabitants of this place and its vicinity convened on Monday laſt, the 4th inſtant, under an elegant Bower, erected for the purpoſe, to celebrate the DAY—The Glorious Day, on which the citizens of America became a Free and Independent People—After partaking of an agreeable repaſt, the following Toaſts were drank, each accompanied with martial muſic and a diſcharge of fire arms by Lieut. Butler's detachment.

1. The cauſe of Liberty throughout the world.
2. The Preſident of the United States.
3. The memory of the Heroes who fell in defence of our Liberties.
4. The Republic of France.
5. General Wayne and the Weſtern Army.
6. The Marquis de la Fayette.
7. The Patriots of Ireland.
8. The United Staes of America—May the rays of Science enlighten the minds of her citizens, and the principles of Friendſhip and Unanimity be diffuſed through their hearts.
9. The State of Pennſylvania.
10. The ſettlement and Population of the Country in which we now reſide.
11. The Treaty with Spain, whereby we obtain the free navigation of the Miſſiſippi.
12. The Treaty with Britain, whereby we obtain the Weſtern Poſts.
13. The Indian Treaty, whereby we now ſit down under our vine and fig tree in peace and ſafety.
14. The American Fair.
15. The Day——nine cheers.

Thus, when almoſt the whole world are at war, wading through ſeas of blood to obtain freedom, we are rejoicing, reflecting upon our happy fate—looking back towards thoſe who are following our example to obtain Independence, and forward to the natives, many of them now in our view, who, inſtead of the war-whoop and battle-axe, are approaching with the benign aſpect of friendſhip, and ſinging the ſong of peace. The celebration of the Day was concluded with the utmoſt decorum.

EXTRACTS.

Modeſty in diſcourſe will give a luſtre to truth, and an excuſe to your errors.

Buffoonery and ſcurrility are the corrupters of wit, as knavery is of wiſdom. Some are ſo black in the mouth, as to utter ſcarce any thing that is decent; ſuppying want of ſenſe with want of modeſty, and want of reputation with want of ſhame.

In ſentimental converſation, ſubjects intereſting to the heart, and to the imagination, are brought forward; they are diſcuſſed in a kind of ſport, with animation and refinement, and are never continued longer than politeneſs allows: Here fancy flouriſhes—the ſenſibilities expand—and wit guided by delicacy, and embelliſhed taſte——points to the heart.

ANECDOTE.

A Schoolmaſter belonging to a ſmall village in France, was deputed to compliment Louis XIVth as he paſſed through. A nobleman who knew the place to be celebrated for an annual fair of aſſes, aſked him, in the middle of his ſpeech, "how they ſold laſt year." "My lord," ſaid the pedagogue, "thoſe of your colour and ſize fetched little or nothing," and finiſhed his harangue amid the applauſe of thouſands.

Four Dollars Reward.

STRAYED from the ſubſcriber living on Montour's run, four miles from Samuel Jeffries Mill, in May laſt, a Sorrel Mare Colt, with two white feet, and a ſmall blaze in her face, her mane has been trimmed, not well broke, rising two years old. The above reward will be paid for ſecuring ſaid Colt ſo that the owner may get her again, and reaſonable charges if brought home.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN GENERAL WILKINSON,
Of the American Army,
AND
COLONEL ENGLAND,
Of the British Army,
Commanding at DETROIT.

Head Quarters, Greenville, May 27, 1796.

SIR,

I PERMIT me to offer you my hearty congratulations, on the final ratification of the Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation, between our respective Countries, officially announced to me by the Minister of War, and promulgated in the Gazettes, which I do myself the pleasure to enclose to you.

As the delivery of the Posts, held by your royal Master's Troops, within the limits of the United States, makes one condition of the compact; it is my wish to concert with you, the measures which may be deemed expedient, to the faithful execution of this stipulation, and to prevent any unnecessary interval, between the periods of your evacuation and of my occupancy.

I stand in perfect readiness for the operation, and entertaining no doubt that the Treaty will be fairly, fully and punctiliously executed, on the part of his Majesty, it becomes my duty to request information from you, of the day on which it may be convenient to you, to withdraw, the troops under your command, from the Territory of the United States.

My aid de-camp Captain Shaumburgh, will have the honor to deliver this letter to you, and he will receive and forward your answer to me, by express, to meet the advanced corps of the army, in the vicinity of Roche de Bout.

With much personal respect and esteem, I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant.

JAMES WILKINSON,
Brigadier General.

Lieut. Col. ENGLAND, of the 24th Regt. British Infantry, or Commanding Officer, at Detroit.

Detroit, June 10, 1796.

SIR,

I HAD the honor of receiving by your aid de-camp, Captain Shaumburgh, your letter under date the 27th ult. mentioning your wish to concert with me, such measures as may be deemed expedient for delivering up this Post to you, and requesting to know the day that it would be convenient for me to withdraw the troops under my command from the Territory of the United States.

And in answer beg to inform you, that in consequence of orders from his Excellency Lord Dorchester, bad hays are erecting on the ground directed by his Excellency to be occupied on the opposite side of this river, for the accommodation of his Majesty's troops, and the protection of his stores, preparatory to evacuating this post, agreeably to the Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation, concluded between Great Britain and the United States, and that those buildings are now in great forwardness, but not having as yet received his final orders to evacuate the Posts under my command, it is not possible for me to fix on a day for that purpose.

I have, however, strong reason for supposing, that those orders will not be unnecessarily delayed, and when I receive them will afford me much pleasure in communicating to you, the time that I shall be ready to withdraw the troops, and to concert with you such measures as may be deemed expedient for your immediately occupying the Posts under my direction.

I beg further to add, that from the preparations already made, a few days will be sufficient to accomplish the transport of the troops and the remaining stores, to the post ordered to be occupied on the opposite side of this river.

I have the honor to be,

With much personal respect & esteem,
Sir, your very obedient, and
Most humble servant,
(Signed) RD. ENGLAND,
Col. Comdg.
